Boyton is working for Sherman, hard and says as long as John Sherman had a chance Gen. Sherman would not permit his name to be whispered. It is now known that John Sherman has no show. Gen. Sherman is in the race to stay. Boyton was Sherman's chief of staff. He is now avowedly working for him. The Blaine men are denouncing the Gen. Sherman movement as an Arthur subsequence.

The Independent Chairman Suggested for

By Telegraph to the Post-Diepatoh.

NEW YORK, June 5.—The World to day in an editorial entitled "The Independents Victorious," says:

"The Independents have proved themselves very capable and active workers, and have thus far carried everything before them at Chicago. They defeated Powell Clayton by a clever combination of all the anti-Blaine elements well handled, and thus gave a Powell Clayton by a clever 'combination of all the anti-Biaine elements well handled, and thus gave a serious, if not a fatal check to the progress of the leading candidate. They were prompt to see the blunder made by the Blahe men in fixing on such an assailable temporary chairman as Clayton, and instead of foolishly mounting the high horse of reform and respectability, they pitted against him an Arthur machine negro from Mississippi, and won the first blood. They were not too delicate or conscientious to fight the devil with fire. Their selection of John B. Henderson of Missouri as permanent president of the convention was also the work of the Independents, and was by far the greatest triumph in the organization. That victory was genuine and substantial. Gen. Henderson is the boldest and ablest, as well as the oldest Independent in the Republican party. A Democrat before the war, he went strongly into the defense of the Union, but can scarcely be said to have entirely affiliated with the Republicans in politics. He condemned the persecution of Andrew Johnson, and was one of the famous seven Republican Senators who had the bravery and honesty to stand up against and defeat the partian impeachment. When retained as special counsel to prosecute the whisky ring at St. Louis, Gen. Henderson was charged with having reflected on President Grant in his address to the jury. "I stand by the speech as made," was his reply to Attorney-General Edward Pierrepont, "I said nothing beyond what was my sworn duty, and for that I have no apology to make." Gen. Henderson was removed from the prosecution, the whisky ring triumphed, and Babooke escaped. Gen. Henderson was removed from the prosecution, the whisky ring triumphed, and organised the anti-third-term movement against Grant and helped more than any other person to tarry.

ARTHUR'S STRENGTH.

An Encouraging Calculation Made by the

By Telegraph to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, June 5.—Telegrams from Gen. Sherman saying that he did not say he would not accept if nominated, are being shown around this morning. There really seems to be the beginning of a boom for William Tecumseh. The Blaine men are doing all in their power to stamp out this movement in its incipiency, and they have bulletined in the hotels the statement he would not accept if nominated. the statement he would not accept if nominated. The Arthur men, on the other hand, are encouraging the candidacy as much as they can, evidently in the belief that Sherman would hurt Blaine, and do no harm to Arthur. Many of the Southern delegates, however, when interviewed upon this subject say that they class Sherman with other dark horses which they are determined to oppose. "It must be Arthur or Blaine," said John R. Lynch of Mississippi. "We are for Arthur, but if Arthur is impossible three-fourths of our delegation is for Blaine, said F. H. Brown of Rochester, N. Y., "but if Blaine cannot be nominated then our vote will go to Arthur." These, you see, are two typical opinions that I believe fairly voices the sentiment of the majority of the delegates here. A dark horse goes in without paying tolls, and the average delegate wants, if possible, to have a distinct and thoroughly well understood contract before lavishing a valuable vote on anybody. "And how," as a distinguished Southern darkey remarked to me pathetically, "can a man take care of himself in a wild stampade." Here you perceive the insile in

SYNOPSIS OF THE SESSION. Brief Report of the Convention's Work During the Day.

By Telegraph to the Post-Dispate efore 11 o'clock Gen. Henderson rapped to order and the customary prayer was delivered, occupying early ten minutes. Mr. Ballard of Vermont, look ing very weary, came forward to read the report of he Committee on Credentials, prefacing it by the tatement that, although the committee had been in lmost constant session since its appointment, with almost constant session since its appointment, with barely enough eating and sleeping to keep it alive, the action had been entirely harmonious, and no member of it showed himself to be the partisan of any candidate. The only question had been as to who had a right to seats in the Convention, and having only the right in view the committee was enabled as a result to present an entirely unanimous report. [Applause,] He then proceeded to read the report, the substance of which has already been stated in the Post-Disparcii. OST-DISPATCH.
The announcement in favor of thation of Virginia provoked
VERY LOUD APPLAUSE.

The chairman of the Committee on Rules and Or ration of nonunating species.

sylvania offered an amendment to the rule relative to the National committee, providing that delegates to the next National Convention shall be elected under the same rules as obtain in the election of Congressmen from the respective districts, and not under the rules and regulations laid down by the National Committee. He supported the amendment with a speech. A member from Alabama suggested that no candidates for Congress are nominated in many of the Southern districts, and hence there are no resulations governing such nominations; unless, methods are supported to the control of the southern districts, and hence there are no resulations governing such nominations; unless, methods are supported to the southern districts.

a speech. A member from Alabama suggested that no candidates for Congress are nominated in many of the Southern districts, and hence there are no regulations governing such nominations; unless, therefore, the National Committee provide a method, delegates to the 'National Couvention could not be chosen. The chairman of the Rules Committee said there was no objection to the amendment and it was adopted.

Another amendment concerning order of business of purely a technical character was adopted, and much time is being lost in discussing amendments of no general interest. The absence of any rule stating that a majority vote should be necessary to a nomination, led one delegate to suggest that it was a trick to enable some delegate to secure the nomination by less than a majority. There was evidently no foundation for such a suspicion, and the rules were so amended as to provide that a majority of all members elected to the Convention should be necessary to a nomination.

Also that instead of the chairman being authorized on an apparent majority to stop the roll call and ask if the nomination shall be unanimous, he must wait till the roll-call is completed. Another amendment to provide that no man shall be a member of the National Committee who is not eligible as a member of the Electoral College was adopted. The minority report met with the almost unanimous opposition of Southern delegates, and by Bradley of Kentacky, who made a very eloquent speech and created a furore. They claimed that it was an effort to gag a class of people who were already suffering from shot-guns for their patrictism. In fact, as the argument proceeded it became evident that this was liable to be one more test on the question in which the Blaine men of the Northern States had indiscretely undertaken to do something which the Arthur, Edmunds and Sherman men were interested in preventing.

THE COMMITTEE ON BULES

submitted a report revising the representation which States and districts have hitherte held in the National Convention. It, provi reported that the committee had adopted substantially the rules of the last convention, except that it recommended the adoption of Cushing's Manual as the parliamentary law of the body, instead of the rules of the House of Representatives, except that the previous question is to be in force as in the House. Mr. Graw of Pennsylvania, from the minority of the committes, offered a substitute for the tenth rule, which precribes the mode of electing delegates to the next-National Republican Convention. He proposes that the delegates shall be elected in the same manner as the member's of Congress. Mr. Parks accepted the proposed amendment of Mr. Grow, having explained that the delegates at large are to be elected by State conventions, and that the manner of electing delegates from the District of Columbia shall be prescribed by the National Republican Committee. The rules were then adopted.

State is entitled.

Mr. Carver of Indiana.

SUPPORTED THE MINORITY REPORT
as entirely in keeping with the genius of American institutions. It did not decrease the representation of any district, but only added to representation in accordance with Republican majorities.

Mr. Bradley of Kentucky opposed the minority report as something that might come from the Democratic party, but not for the Republican party. There had been times when the South had saved the Republican party. It was Florida that gave them the President in 1876. He warned the Republican party that the tariff question was coming up before the country, and that it might come when the Northern States might want the aid of the South. The Southern delegates came here as free men, not as slaves. They did not ask to diotate the nomination, but they declined to surrender their manhood with the gallows, which, it was now proposed, might hang some of those who proposed it. West Virginia, North Carolina, Florida and the Old Dominion, in spite of Democratic shot guns, and in spite of legalized murder which cried to. God for vengeancs, would give the Republican party their electoral votes at the coming election. [Applause.]

Mr. Lynch of Mississpip also opposed the minority report. It would be simply saying to the ballot box stuffer at the South and to the shot gun holders that they should have the benefit of their crimes. [Applause.]

or dissent.

MR. FILLEY OF MISSOURI

opposed the minority report. He spoke of the 60,000 Republicans of Missouri who united their votes with the Greenbackers, and saked whether they were to be abandoned, or whether they should not be encouraged, as Mahone had been encouraged, who had saved Virginia to the Republican party. [Applause.]

Mr. O'Hara of North Carolina declared that the adoption of the minority report would be a total surrender of the political rights of every Republican in the South, white as well as black.

Mr. Clayton of Arkansas also opposed the minority report.

Mr. Bishop of Massachusetts then withdrew the report, amid great applause, stating that it was entirely evident that the sentiment of the convention was against it. The majority report was then adopted.

The Republicans of the United States in National Convention assembled, renew their allegiance to the principles upon which they have triumphed in six successive Presidential elections, and congratulate the American people on the attainment of so many results in legislation and administration, by which the Republican party has a few hearty approval of every citizen.

It is the first duty of a good government to protect the rights and promote the interests of its own people.

The largest diversity of industry is most productive of general prosperity, and of the comfort and independence of the people; we therefore demand that the imposition of duties of foreign imports shall be made, not "for revenue only," but that, in raising the requisite revenues for the Government, such duties shall be so levied as to afford security to our diversified industries, and protection to the rights and wages of the laborer, to the end that active and intelligent labor, as well as capital, may have its just award, and the laboring man his full share in the national prosperity. Against the so-called economic system of the Democratic party, which would degrade our labor to the foreign standard, we enter our earnest protest.

The Democratic party has falled completely to relieve the people of the burden of unnecessary taxation by a wise reduction of the surplus. The Republican party places itself to correct the inequalities of the tariff, and to reduce the surplus, not by the vicious and indiscriminate process of horizontal reduction, but by such method as will relieve the ax-payer without injuring the laborer, the great productive interests of the country.

We recognize the importance of sheep husbandry in the United States, the serious depression which it is now experiencing, and the danger threatening its future prosperity, and we therefore respect the demands of the representatives of this important agricultural interest for a readjustment of the duty upon foreign wool, in order that such industry shall have full and adequate protection.

We have always recommended the best money known to the civilized world, and we urge that efforts should be made to unite all commercial nations in the establishment of an international standard, which shall fix for all the relative value of gold and sliver coinage.

The regulation of commerce with foreign nations and between party stands pledged to suitable pensions for all who were disabled, for the widows and orphans of those who died in the war. The Republican party also pledges itself to the repeal of the limitation contained in the Arrears Act of 1877, so that all in-valid soldiers share alike, and their pensions begin with the date of disability or discharge, and not with the date of the application.

The convention proceedings unfortunately give little opportunity for a display of this disposition to appland, but there will be many other occasions for 1. To those who looked over that immense gathering occupying every seat in the hall, and presenting, as one man said, an aspect strikingly like a lot of clean washed new potatoes, it seemed impossible that room could be found for fifty more. Hence, the resolution ordering the ticket committee to distribute 500 more tickets among visiting veteran soldiers presented a problem the solution of which will be watched with much interest. Each seat in the hall is already represented by an outstanding ticket, and five hundred veteran soldiers will probably have an opportunity to do a little more desperate fighting if they attempt to seize

THE action of the House of Delegates in pass ing the Forest Park, Laclede and Fourth street railroad bill is of unusual importance, as it vin dicates that most valuable right of permitting new railroad companies to use the tracks of oth er companies. If the charter is granted it will relieve the Municipal Assembly from the imputation of being controlled in its acts by a combination of street railroad interests.

THERE are enough dangers, one would think, entening human life in St. Louis, without the new danger of a large, first-class hotel suddenly tumbling down on its inmates. This nly is a preventable accident and the, downfall of the Bristol Hotel calls for full intigation. The weakening of the wall which led to the catastrophe may have been done by order of a lessee who was ignorant of the real nature of the work, or by a contractor who merely obeyed orders without regard to consequences. If such was the case it will, furnish a strong argument against permitting such work to go on without a proper supervision. The jurisdiction of the Commissioner of Buildings uld include repairs and alterations in ldings as well as plans of new ones.

wither, fall and fade from view among the baser elements. Even JOHN B. HENDERSON will bloom no more as a reformer. They say he pledged himself to FILLEY and then voted for VAN HORN, whom he once characterized as man that could not be held responsible for use nature had made him incapable of ne men, an Arthur man to Arthur men, an ds man to the Curtis dudes, and holding of the Convention. Gath says that he charmed all of the baser sort by telling them "he'd be damned if he wanted anything more to do with better men than human nature at large." After along trial this former Democrat has at last got the true graft of the Republican party, and CARL SCHURZ is left to pine alone on the the last rose of the reform element of Repub-tooed men. SPENCER, DORSEY and all the gers have in turn been the subjects of his facile sulogies. The readers of the Cincinnati Enquirer are just now indebted to him for the tonishing discovery that the very men who were supposed to be the partners and pals of Dorsey and the originators of the Star Route swindle, are in reality virtuous reformers. According to "Gath" it was POWELL CLAYTON, STEVE ELKINS and our own KERENS who, at at their own expense, collected the evidence and made the exposures which compelled the Administration to break up the Star Route ring. As a discoverer of figs ripening on thistles, "Gath" is a phenomenal success. Mr. Henderson will have hard work exining the ugly story that he obtained the nship of the Missouri delegation by romise to vote for FILLRY for the National mittee. FILLEY's friends carried out their part of the programme and gave HENDERSON the chairmanship of the delegation, from which he stepped up to the chairmanship of the convention. But when the time came to keep his promise HENDERSON not only did not bring his friends to vote for FILLEY but even voted against him himself. This is the charge openly made against the chairman of the National Convention a charge which involves dishonor able conduct. We do not know what HENDER son's version of the story is, but he probably thought that in so great a crisis a small trifle like keeping a promise did not signify. THE English language needs a new word to express the nomination by a delegate which is a different thing from the nomination by a convention. For instance, Gen. SHERMAN does not want his name to be put up: he wishes to decline that kind of a nomination. But at the same time if such a nomination should be made and it should result in the convention giving him the other kind of a nomination, why, Gen SHERMAN has not said what he would do in uch a contingency. We need to be very care ful in using this word nomination, which has two meanings, and should not misuse it to mis represent Gen. SHERMAN. As an old soldier. he has done his duty and is prepared to do it again, and if the voice of the Republicans of the Nation should call on him to make caro. The thrilling refrain, "He is my can, he a new campaign, we incline to believe that he would answer as promptly as he did twenty odd

He has suddenly dropped to the level of an ordinary white delegate and is left to look out for himself, as they are. Still he is sufficiently grand to awe the wondering beholder of his race at the hotel—they who have not risen to the dignities of statesmanship, but are still en gaged in menial occupations. Finally, fishing for available candidates upon whom to unite against him has gone far, but brought no bites. used here yesterday by a startling report of in n the past few months twenty-three children isted to the care of the institution, and to been intrusted to the care of the institution, and to-day it was learned that twenty-one of them had been buried a short distance from the santjarium. An investigation resulted in the finding of the corpses by Dr. Ingersoll of May's Landing and a physician from Trenton. The bodies were buried in rude pine boxes and had evidently been interred of any kind. It is intimate various hands it came into possession of Miss Nivison. It is said that Miss Nivison took the children from motives of the purest philanthropy and had given her own money and time with a view of rearing them. The only thing she can be held accountable for is the keeping of the deaths and burials a secret. The building is situated in a very secluded spot and Miss Nivison and the employes have mingled very little with their neighbors. The actions, consequently were not known. Their sanitarium is close to this village, the site is one of the most elevated in the State, the air remarkably fine and water delicious and abundant. Food is abundant and living generally cheap. In speaking of the institution at the time it was established several months ago Miss Nivison said: "The purpose of the Nivison home is to gather from the great cities foundlings and homeless infants to transplant and rear them in a salubrious country home and to prepare them for useful lives. The immense benefit to the body and mind of a few weeks or even a few rear them in a salubrious country home and to prepare them for useful lives. The immense benefit to the body and mind of a few weeks or even a few days in the country or at the sea side is now universally acknowledged, especially in the case of children. How MUCH GREATER, then is the advantage of a continuous residence under the same health-giving conditions? The child, however, to profit thoroughly by life in the country should begin it in infancy, for the town-bred child will not bear transplanting, but becomes discontented and restless, and anxious to get back to its old haunts and associations. It is this moral and physical blood-poisoning that the Nivison home seeks to avoid by taking the child to the country while still an infant, and then giving it all that is necessary for healthy, moral, physical and spiritual development. To train the child from infancy in the paths of virtue and health is more economical for the State and for society than to erect and maintain prisons, hospitals and alms-houses. It is immensely cheaper to rear, thoroughly educate and train to self-helpfulness each friendless child than to leave him to grow up amid evil associations. "The institution is under the control of three trustees, A. S. Barnes, S. V. White and B. F. Blair, who hold a deed of trust to the eighty-three acres on which the sanitarium is built. Mr. Austin Corbin of this city, treasurer of the institution, was seen at his banking house, No. 115 Broadway, by a reporter, but he said he knew nothing about the management of the house. He had simply been asked to accept the treasurership, and he had done so.

A New York dispatch says: About two months ago charges were made by Mr. Arthur M. Hunter to the executive committee of the Coney Island Jockey Club that Mr. Fred. Gebhardt had refused to hand over to him a share of the winnings of the famous race horse Koie, according to agreement. It was alleged that Mr. Gebhardt desired to have Eole run in his name and under his colors. For this privilege, he was willing to I pay all training and other expenses incurred through keeping and running the horse, and to hand over the bulk of the winnings to Mr. Hunter, who owned the horse in part. Under this alleged agreement, Mr. Hunter, it is said, claimed $15,000. He had sent letters and messages to Mr. Gebhardt in relation to the matter, but the d every day and there will be in the neighborhoo this alleged agreement, Mr. Hunter, it is said, claimed $15,00. He had sent letters and messages to Mr. Gebhardt in relation to the matter, but the latter had paid no attention to them. The papers were submitted to the executive committee, and, after examination, they advised Messars. Hunter and Gebhardt to submit to arbitration. This was done, and Judge A. J. Vanderpool, J. G. R. Lawrence, secretary of the Coney Island Jockey Club, and H. I. Nicholas, a member, were agreed upon as a board of arbitration. To-day they decided that Hunter had not substantiated his claim against Gebhardt, but they decided that Gebhardt must pay Hunter $3,000 in consideration of the care and management exercised by him over Eole.

closeted together for some time. The substance of the discussion was that Mr. Muldoon wanted a postponement of his match with Martino from Thursday until Saturday night.

He set forth in a very earnest manner the disadvantages under which he would labor if compelled to wrestle a man like Martino in his condition, wearled with a week's travel and lacking the exercise necessary to fit him for a contest with so formidable a man as the Spaniard. He appealed to Mr. Dunn as Martino's representative, who was inclined to make the concession, saying that "he knew he had a good man, and did not want to take any unreasonable advantage of Muldoon."

Here Mr. Lewis interposed, saying that Mr. Muldoon limd telegraphed his acceptance to wrestle for the purse which he offered, and on the strength of that he had incurred a great expense in advertising; that he did not offer the purse of $1,000 for fun; that it was a "speculation with him, and one out of which he expected to make some money;" that any day would have suited him, but inasmuch as he had gone to the expense of $300 or $400 to advertise Thursday night as the night upon which the match should take place, he should not agree to any post-ponement. Muldoon reluctantly acquisesed. He said that "he was not bound by anything but gro-fessional honor, but that the redemption of that was sufficient to bring him to the scratch next Thursday night, no matter what the result might be." So the match so nearly broken up will come off as advertised.

It is but due to Mr. Muldoon to say that his de-vertised.

It is but due to Mr. Muldoon to say that his demand was not at all unreasonable, but on the other hand it would be wholly the loss to Mr. Lewis, who depends upon a very liberal patronage to reimburse him for the large purse which he has offered.

No doubt the knowledge of Muldoon's condition will have a great intinence in the betting.—Enquirer.

Building Inspector Oliver's Opinion of the Bristol Hotel.

trophe Harrowly Avoided on Washington Avenue Hight—A Terrible Alarm, but Nobody Hurtther Buildings in the Same Unsale Condition.

Shortly before 10 o'clock last night the eastern end of the Bristol, better known as the Windsor Hotel, at Fourteenth and Washington avenue, collapsed, an alarm of fire was turned in from box 196 and on the arrival of the department the guests were wildly rushing from the building, which they supposed was on fire. When the hotel was rebuilt a ory residence at No. 1812 Washington aver included in the new structu four-story residence at No. 1312 Washington avenne was included in the new structure. This portion of the house was occupied by the office and a saloon, which faced a court. The suite of rooms Nos. 109 and 110, on the second floor, was occupied by Mr. Charles Moss and family of four persons, and immediately over this the rooms were occupied by Mr. Charles Moss and family of four persons, and immediately over this the rooms were occupied by J. G. Greer, his mother and sister. On the fourth floor, a mansard roof, the help was quartered. Some time ago some improvements were begun. On the first story two large arches had been cut in the western wall to connect with the building proper, A wall, which served as a hall partition in the old residence and a support for the upper floors, had been cut away and replaced with pillars. This weakened the building, which never had the required strength, and to this the accident of last night is attributed. At the time of the crash Mary Skalley, Nellie Rawlings, Ada Eads, Magrie Burke, Mary Shannahan, Nellie Stanton, Annie Batcheller and Lissie O'Leary were in the servants' rooms. They heard a cracking noise and saw small pieces of whitening fall as the walls partied. They ran screaming from their rooms, and had barely reached the threshold when the roof sagged to the floor, carrying the whole to the floor and escaped. The guest knowledge of the parting timbers. She ran from the building became panic stricken and ran from the building became panic stricken and ran from the house in their night garments; several of them fainted after they discovered that they were out of immediate danger. The alarm spread through the western part of the hotel, and in a few seconds the apartmentia were empty and an army of guests were piling down the steps. When the firemen reached the hotel they began to search the rulns, but in the meantime a count was instituted and soon showed that there was no missing ones. Mrs. Louis Norval was sick in bed in her apartments, and in the excitement of the sca being properly supported that the building was materially weakened."

"What do you mean by weakened?"

"Simply this, that principles of construction were everlooked in such a way that it seems little less than criminal. Why, look here. Every architect knows that when an opening is cut into the wall at least two arches of bricks should be built over it. Nothing less than that can make the wall secure. How was it done in this case? The hole was cut through, the door casing placed in, and then the crevices and cracks were cemented or plastered over. Now, notice what an immediate effect such botch work would have upon the wall. The lower layer of brick having no solid support, soon began to settle, and with each subsequent jar brick after brick became loose.

mew anything about building should have seen that the trouble couldn't have been remedled that way.

The fault lay right here: That the door jams were ever built up properly, nor were the arches turned over the door openings."

"Why didn't the inspectors condemn the build ing?"

"My didn't the inspectors condemn the building?"
"How could we? We didn't know anything about it, as the changes were made years ago when there were no building inspectors. You can rest assured that if there had been no such construction would have been allowed. But every defect was covered up so cleverly that the walls seemed perfectly sound. Inspector Barron was all over the fifth floor Tuesday examining the means of egress, and saw no evidences of the near fall. In my mind the weak parts were patched and doctored in a most censural manner. And I want to say also that there are at least thirty other buildings in the city that are equally as dangerous and all under the eye of the inspectors, this very moment."

MR. E. A. RICH.

Thatcher, was the proprietor of Thatcher's cafe, 140 and 142 Monroe street, Chicago, until two months ago, when he sold out and took charge of the Bristol. He claimed to a Post-Dis-Parch reporter that he knew nothing of the building's defects and was in no sense responsible for the public's ignorance on the matter. He also said that guests had such confidence in the St. Charles street side that in preference to leaving they were "doubling up" and trying to utilize all the accommodations obtainable there. He was certain that thirty days would see the structure regenerated. "In fact," said he, "the architects will be here this afternoon to prepare the plans for the portion to be rebuilt. I also want to say that nobody was hurt in the fall, all previous statements to the contrary notwithstanding. Everybody had ample time to escape, very fortunately, and I know of no person who received the slightest scratch." Mr. Rich thought the loss on the building and furniture would be between $10.000 and $12.000, much smaller than the estimate given above. As few guests had their rooms in the unfortunate quarter, but little was lost in personal valuables.

At a wedding breakfast last week the menu was printed on white satin from the same piece of which the bride's dress was made. Rice was thrown after the bride from the same grocer's where her grandmother used to trade. where her grandmother used to trade.

Feather dusters for ladies "who always attend to the parlor ornaments themselves" now have ebony sticks and the feathers are ostrich, held by successive bands of scarlet satin ribbons. They are so elegant that ladies hate to use them, and so they hang up in the parlor along with the other costly ornaments.

War upon the puffed sleeves has been declared, and, it is said, will be carried on until they are entirely driven out of fashion. It is affirmed they make women look deformed and "crooked," and nature having done so much of this sort of thing for the fashionable women of the day, a fashion that enhances this deformity ought to be suppressed. All of which is respectfully submitted to the leading modistes.

Some beautiful costumes were worn at the recent reception given by Mrs. Morton, in Paris, in honor of ex-Minister Noyes. Mrs. Harjes, wife of the American banker, wore green velvet trimmed with leaves of pearl passementerie, and a train of white satin brocaded with lillies of the valley; Mrs. Cutting of New York, wore crushed strawberry velvet trimmed with point lace, and Mrs. Hooper, black velvet. Mrs. Morton's costume was of white satin trimmed with dark green velvet.

as a minister of the gospel, a journalist or a news-dealer, it is quite evident that as a married man dealer, it is quite evident that as a married man he proved a signal failure. His accomplishments were varied, and it was well established before Judge Thayer to-day that he could turn his hand to anything, even a frying-pan, when his wife Hilke was around, and he thought he needed exercise. From Leavenworth, Kan., the place of his marriage, he migrated to the Lone Star State, where he religiously devoted his Sabbaths to elevating the thoughts of his neighbors above the groveling things of earth by preaching to them the great truths of the gospel, and during the week devoted himself with equal energy to teaching his spouse that woman was made only to labor and suffer for hericage lord. While he devoted himself to preparing his sermons, he sent for preparing his sermons, he sent of her, but with all their united efforts farming never paid. So Henry, with his family, turned his eyes northward, toward the Future Great. Arriving here he settled in Carondelet and opened up his career as a business man by starting a news stand. In conjunction with this he began a journalistic career, in both of which occupations he is now engaged. During the course of his married existence Henry has made the best record extant as a missile thrower.

every household article, according to her story, that he could handle, from a small parlor organ to a salt-cellar. The married women in his neighborhood now look upon her as a perfect predigy for, after having both eyes blacked, her hip bruised, one ear cuffed until it is useless, her side so staved in that she has to sleep on her back, and suffering innumerable other afflictions, she accomplished the unparalleled feat of giving birth to twins. Henry has filed a cross-bill in the case in which he cheics all of these things except the twins, and absthinks he would have denied these if she had not brought them into court, where they are the envy of the entire twenty-one female witnesses summoned the entire twenty-one temale witnesses summoned to testify in the case.

ARS. RAAS, a work-worn but pleasant-faced woman, with the reimants of some former good looks remaining, took the witness stand and narrated the story of her wrongs. She told it calmly and without emotion. She married her husband as a minister of the gospel in good standing of the Evangelical Association. While at Leavenworth she was compelled to stay at home and work like a slave, and her husband had a habit of coming home in bad humor and subjecting her to bad treatment such as slapping pushing and hitting hgr. At Leavenworth Mr. Haas acted on the principle of keeping his wife under proper subjection by a judicious use of physical correction. He would tell her that the place of the woman was in the kitchen and at work in the house, and he would never take her out for pleasure or recreation. Frequently he would return from a tour of two days, in which he had and besides the road would save to all consumers of coal north and south an IMMESSE AMOUNT OF MONEY.

We canvessed the matter thoroughly and expected the unanimous support of all the business men in St. Louis. Much to our surprise, after the first reading of the bill in the Council, many of our leading citizens, among them Adolphus Meier, Carlos Greelev and D. R. Francis, appeared in the Council Chamber, and while unanimously indorsing the provisions of the bill, and, admitting not only its usefulness but its actual necessity, demanded that they be permitted to name three incorporators with the originators of the bill. This we peremptorily refused, because in the first place there was no necessity for them, and secondly we had the money and brains to build it ourselves. We did not want to antagonize any business element of the city, but we denied their right to interfere or make our business obnoxious to us. These men were owners of the Madison County Ferry and gave as a reason for their action the excuss that they believed our business would antagonize theirs. That is their ostensible reason, but I believe their real reason is that they are WORKING IN THE INTEREST Of the Wabash road. Mr. Sells and I had an interview with Mr. Francis on 'Change, and we agreed to add two names on our list, those of Henry Overstotz and John P. Keiser. He, as a representative of the faction, expressed himself as satisfied. So I supposed that at last night's meeting of the Council all would be harmony. Much to my surprise, I found, on arriving, the same phalanx of opponents, who insisted this time that, in addition to the names already taken, we accept that of Dwight Tredway. We declined. After exhausting all powers of persuasion they peremptorly demanded that we incorporate Mr. Tredway or they would defeat the bill. Councilman Vastine approached me and said if I would consent to Mr. Tredway as one of the incorporators nothing would be done against the bill, otherwise the bill was carried, however, and to-day I heard that, while t

Buried Alive. The body of James Kelly, one of the clerks who was killed in the fall of the Hooper building on Friday, was unearthed to-day. It was conclusively proven by physicians that Kelly was killed by firemen who were tearing down injuries save the crushing of his foot in the safe door. A singular fact in connection with the case is that a sister of Kelly's was on the scene of the disaster yesterday imploring the firemen to make haste in rescuing her brother. Shawas wild with grief, and stated positively that she was sure her brother was alive in the ruins. Her singular premonition proved to be correct. There is no doubt now that seven men were killed by the wreck.

The United Presbyterians closed their annual assembly yesterday. The principal business transacted in the afternoon was the adoption of the report of the special committee on divorce reform, which maintained that divorces should be granted only on scriptural grounds. Church boards and committees for the ensuing year were announced, and, after the customary resolutions of thanks, the convention adjourned to meet in Topeka, Kan, the fourth Wednesday of May, 1888.

A BRIGHT PROSPECT.

St. Louis to Have a Cable Road Within Four Months.

the City and a Horse Railway to Forest Park-The Municipal Assembly Making Up for Lost Time.

The residents of the West End have good reason to throw up their hats and hurrah now, for the fumicipal Assembly, usually so blind to the wants of the people, has passed a bill which will give to St. Louis what it most needs, a cable railroad. The general reader, who seldom looks at the proceedings of the City Council or House of Delegates, is not familiar with the provisions of the bill, and for his benefit the following is given. The bill authorizes the St. Louis, Creve Cœur and St. Charles Railway to construct a street railway with cable as the St. Louis, Creve Cœur and St. Charles Railway to construct a street railway with cable as the only motor, from the terminus of the present Narrow Gauge Road along Morgan street to Grand avenue; along Grand to Franklin avenue, along Franklin avenue to Leffingwell, thence across Easton avenue to Wash street, along Wash to Fourteenth street, southwardly along Fourteenth across Thirteenth to Locust, and along Locust to Sixth street. The franchise is for fifty years and the compensation to the city is $1,000 a year the first five years, $2,000 annually the second five years, $3,000 annually the third five years, $4,000 annually the reafter until the franchise lapses. The road is to be extended to Taylor avenue five years from now. The bill passed by a vote of 9 to 1, those voting in the affirmative being Messrs. Cummings, Devoy, Haines, Parker, Stone, Straub, Temple, Vastine and President Parker. The negative vote was that of Mr. Zelle, who from first to last showed an strato, lempse, vastneand President Parker. The negative vote was that of Mr. Zelle, who from first to last showed an Incomprention of the tothe bill. He objected to every feature of it and attempted all sorts of filibustering. The bill will how become a law as soon as the Mayor signs it, or rather ten days from the time he signs it. The incorporators of the road are a number of Indiana capitalists who purchased the old Narrow Gauge Road, and who intend to develop the residence qualities of the district through which that road runs. These capitalists are, first, Mr. M. A. Downing, the president; he was formerly general manager of the Relt Road in Indianapolis, and is a man of great wealth; Mr. W. C. De Paw, the heaviest capitalist in Indiana, a resident of New Albany, where he owns the plateglass works, the rofling mill and two banks, besides being the largest owner in two banks in Indianapolis; Mr. C. F. Claypool, vice-president of the First National Bank of Indianapolis; S. H. Cobb and Geo. F. Branham of the firm of Cobb & Branham, coal dealers and railroad builders in Indianapolis; J. A. Hanson, wholesale hardware dealer in the Indiana capital, and F. M. Colburn of this city, the ticket agent of the Vandalia Road. The strongest objection that has been urged against the passage of the bill has been that these gentlemen are 'foreigners' and come here for the purpose of making money. So it will be seen that all those who want people to stay away from St. Louis are not dead yet. Mr. Downing was asked by a representative of the Post-Disparce this morning how soon work would be begun on the road.

"We will begin work immediately," said he. "Just as soon as the bill becomes a law, we will work with all our energy to build the road, our intention being to complete it with the proper was a seaked. Mr.
